Booth Selection

If you haven't selected your booth yet, please view the available booths at this link and submit your detail to egustafson@sdeevents.com for which booth you would like to select. This is based on a first come first serve basis. RMMS Floor Plan 2026

Stage Announcement Opportunity

This year we are excited to offer an announcement stage right in the center of the expo hall. We are offering all partners the option to provide a 2-3 minute preview talk to mention your company, services/product and booth location to learn more. We do ask that if you are doing an announcement, to please provide a raffle item worth a minimum of $100 (must be a physical item, not a promotion). Spots are limited and subject to availability based on time of submission.

FAQ's

As Exhibitors can we Attend Educational Sessions and Social Events?

Yes, absolutely. Everyone is encouraged and welcome to come to all of our social events and educational sessions. The only restriction is our certification classes on August 26th, as these are a separate registration, which is available on our main registration page on our website, and are limited and subject to availability.

Is there food and beverage provided at the event?

The conference provides beverage service throughout the day. Breakfast and lunch options are available on your own at our concession stand and food trucks throughout the event. The welcome reception will include a hosted bar and cash bar options, as well as light hors d'oeuvres. Our welcome RMMS throwdown party will include bar options and dinner vouchers.

Is this event open to the general public?

The only time that this event is open to the public is on Friday, August 28th, from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m., in support of the community. For the rest of the duration of the conference, attendees must be registered. Registration is also available on site.

If I want to invite clients or prospects on behalf of my company, is there a special discount code I can offer them?

Yes, a general code for $50 off registration is RMMS26, which can be used on our General website when registering. Each of our exhibiting partners also has their own custom codes. Please reach out to our Events team for those specific details.
